Founder of the Facebook page https://www.facebook.com/KayWordsTranslations that aims at promoting the Translation and Interpretation domain through academic follow-up, additional practical training and professional guidance for translation and interpretation students and amateurs of the profession. The Facebook page gives updates of the conferences, symposia, seminars and workshops we are organising, and which address topics related to the training of translation and interpretation professionals such as prerequisites, cognitive skills and essential academic tools, learning opportunities (internships and scholarships) and description of the local and international market. The first edition, held on 17 November 2018, marked the beginning of a long series. The main purpose being to get in touch with the wheels of training and professional integration. The content of the monthly-based conferences is firstly devoted to exploring generalities, history and professional training in translation: how to approach training as a translator with serenity? From the content of translation and interpretation courses, practical training in Computer-Assisted Translation, Localisation, terminology management and extraction, and audio-visual translation tools to the writing of a Master's thesis in Translation, Interpretation and Terminology. Then, workshops led by professionals present the essential academic and practical tools to be used throughout the translators' and interpreters' training and career followed by the presentation of upcoming practical training seminars.
