NATIVE SPEAKING TRANSLATORS AND INTERPRETERS

Case Study 1 Helping You Meet Urgent Deadlines

Last year, we received a phone call from a locally based solicitors firm who explained that they had been let down by the language agency they normally used. The requester explained that she had an urgent court case to attend and their usual supplier has promised to deliver the translated files BUT had contacted them at the last minute to advise they were unable to deliver due to lack of qualified translators.

The impact on the client would have meant re-arranging the court date which would have led to wasted costs and court resources.

The project consisted of translating 11 pages of legal case notes (approximately 5400 words) from English into Albanian to enable the defendant to understand what was being submitted and provide any clarifications.

Furthermore the client required the translation to be certified for use in a court of law. This requires the translation and original source materials to be presented to a public notary for signature; along with a statement from the translator advising that the translation is complete and accurate.

The turnaround time was less than 2 days (this size of project would normally require minimum of 4 days) and the client stressed the importance of an accurate final translation despite the deadline.

Being experienced in these types of requests – we immediately knew which workflow would be most suitable. To meet the short deadline; we split the translation project between two suitably qualified Albanian translators.

The project was delivered to the client on time and the court hearing went ahead as planned.

Ensuring your Data is Secure and Protected

As added assurance of our commitment to data security; all of our translators sign and adhere to a non-disclosure agreement as part of the recruitment process and will not be assigned any work until this is complete.

We also conduct home-office surveys to ensure all translators are working in a secure environment and have the relevant IT security in place.

Case Study 2 Ensuring your Data is Secure and Protected

We love to help our clients grow and believe that penetrating new markets to make new sales is a great way to do this. There are many ways that we help our clients with international sales strategies – for example:

- We can translate your sales and marketing materials and collateral.
- We can localise and optimise your website into relevant languages; so international customers can find your site and buy your services or products easily.
- we can provide translation of legal contracts and documents your may require when setting up a new office on foreign shores.

Last year, we helped a UK based clothing retailer target and enter new markets through provision of our multilingual services. We offer a partnership approach and initial meetings involved discussing the client's plans and strategies.

Our proposal comprised of the following:

- Websites Localisation
- Multilingual SEO
- Translation of Social Media Content

Since this project, the client has come back to us to localise their website into 2 further languages.
