SUMMARY

I am an experienced translator specializing in English and Portuguese language pairs. For me, each translation is not just a task; it's a journey where I draw from my limited yet evolving experiences. Embarking on this path, I've come to realize that work is not merely about time and effort but a harmonious balance. By shifting my perspective, I've transformed work from a duty marked by compulsion and sacrifice into a source of personal and professional growth. The removal of negative thoughts has paved the way for new opportunities, continuous learning, and personal development, enriching each translation endeavor.
