Dear Whom it may concern

I was so pleased to find your recruitment and hope to work as your member.

As you can see from my resume, I had worked as a cabin crew in Hong Kong for over 8 years. A working environment in English made me learn practical English, especially communication between the flight crew and passengers.

And the more, I had been all over the world and acquired knowledge of various cultures during my crew life, which enriched my translation skills broadly. So I truly believe my previous career will be helpful and connect the dot where I am heading forward as a video translator.

I am confident working as individual even though I love meeting people as well as keep learning something. I feel confident after what I've done in good time management myself. Punctuality and time management are my assets from working in the aviation industry.

I want to emphasize that I'm a highly responsible person in what I take charge of. So with my full passion and qualification, I'm definitely prepared to embark on this career in your company.

In advance, thank you for your time and attention. I look forward to your response.

Kind regards,
Sunyoung Park
