Hobbies and Interests: Literature, philosophy, law, history, cinema and painting

I am an avid reader of English literature, particularly high fantasy and modernist genres, fascinated by Tolkien's beautiful imaginary world and Joyce's provocative richness. I enjoy watching movies primarily from Hollywood's Golden Era and other classics and reading profound reviews and essays about them by critics like Chris Marker and Serge Daney and discussing them with my friends. I also spend a lot of my free time dwelling in Art Galleries and giving myself away to the magnificent beauty of paintings of greats like Jan Van Eyck and Van Gogh. I have an itch for history and am extremely passionate to investigate the past and questioning presuppositions about it, and develop new insights to it, pretty much the same with philosophy I read and discuss relevant and provocative themes in philosophy to stimulate the enjoyable feeling of astonishment that everyone loves.

Additional information

In the rigorous curriculum of IB, I acquired traits such as international mindedness, critical thinking, being astounded by philosophical questions thanks to TOK, becoming reflective on myself, my strengths and weaknesses thanks to the mandatory CAS. All of which helped me develop as a person.
